PROJECT OVERVIEW

Bringing the Design Together, Floor by Floor

The Stand is a newly fitted-out bar and kitchen in Bexhill-on-Sea, combining exposed brick, industrial lighting and a neon-lit back bar with a warm, contemporary feel. Total Flooring Solutions was appointed to deliver the full flooring package across the venue — from the statement herringbone feature floor at the heart of the bar, through to durable wood-effect planks in the main seating area and practical, easy-clean flooring in the washrooms.

Working alongside the wider fit-out team during a live installation programme, our fitters coordinated around joinery, M&E first fix and furniture deliveries to keep the flooring on schedule without holding up other trades on site.

The finished bar area: a black & white herringbone Amtico feature floor marks out the bar and stool zone, framed by rich walnut-tone wood-effect flooring through the seating area.

THE BRIEF

A Floor That Works as Hard as the Room

The client wanted flooring that could carry the character of the design — the exposed brick, the pendant lighting, the neon signage — while standing up to the daily reality of a busy bar: spilled drinks, moving stools, and constant footfall between the bar, seating and washrooms. A single flooring type wouldn't do it; each zone needed its own finish, all installed to work together visually and practically.

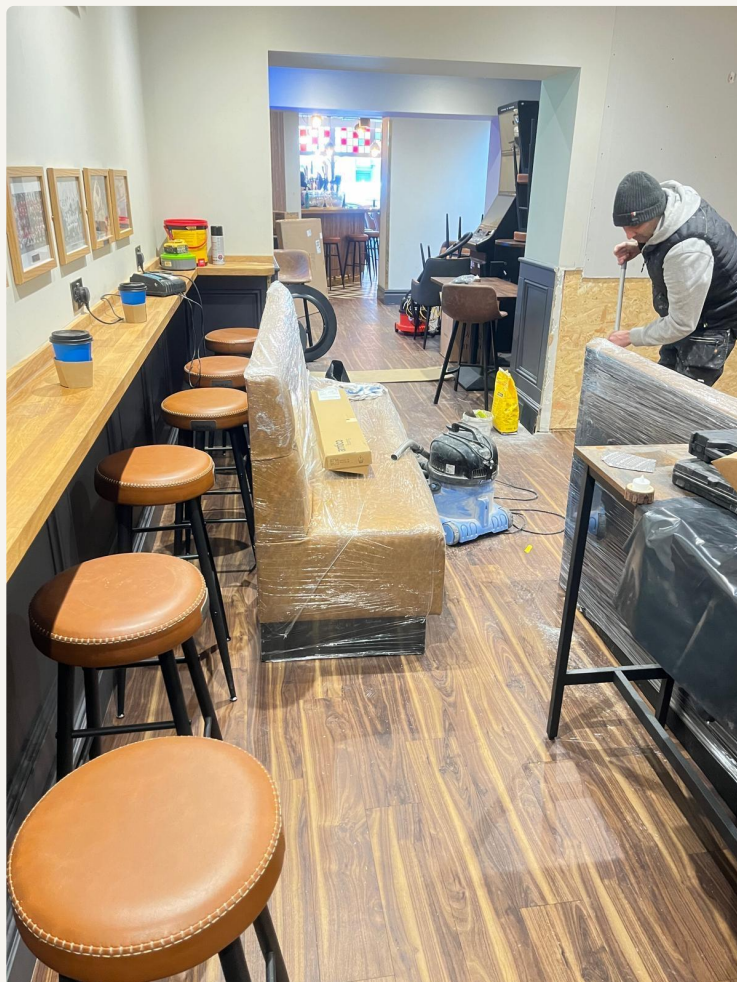

THE SOLUTION

Three Finishes, One Consistent Standard

Bar & stool zone: a bold black-and-white herringbone Amtico floor was laid to anchor the bar area, giving it a distinct identity within the open-plan space and standing up to the highest-traffic footprint in the venue.

Seating & front-of-house: warm walnut-tone wood-effect Amtico planks were installed through the booth seating and dining area, tying the flooring back into the exposed brick and timber tones used elsewhere in the fit-out.

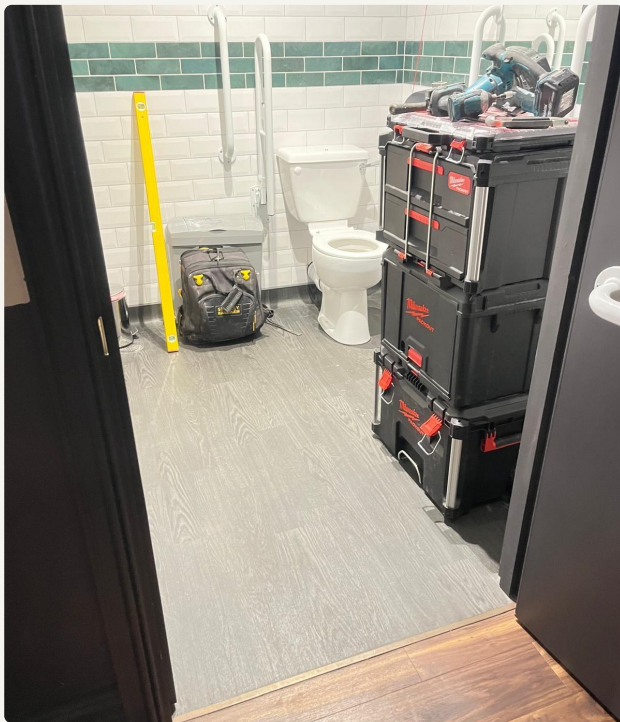

Washrooms & back-of-house: a grey wood-effect Amtico floor was fitted throughout the accessible WC, ladies' and gents' facilities — a practical, water-resistant finish that still reads as part of the same considered design, rather than a change of tone.

THE DETAIL

Consistent Finish, Right Into the Washrooms

The same attention given to the main bar floor carried through to the washrooms — cut in cleanly around sanitaryware, grab rails and vanity units, with a level, easy-clean surface throughout.

Accessible WC fitted around grab rails and fixtures, ahead of final snagging.

Grey wood-effect flooring runs continuously from the corridor into the washrooms.

Finished ladies' washroom: the grey Amtico floor sits cleanly against the decorative wall covering and gold vanity unit, cut precisely to the room's angles.

THE RESULT

A Venue-Wide Floor That Reads as One Design

From the statement herringbone at the bar to the quiet, practical finish in the washrooms, The Stand now has a flooring package that supports the design intent in every room rather than just the ones on display. It's built to take the daily wear of a working bar — spilled drinks, moving furniture, constant footfall — without losing the character the design was built around.

Total Flooring Solutions delivered the installation to a live site programme, working around other trades to keep the fit-out on track for opening.
